O. , 2004. OCLC Number: (OCOLOC)56125237 Subject: Postal rates -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 11 Illinois is a wonderful State and it is pretty flat. As you travel downstate, where my home is, cornfields and soybean fields in every direction as far as the eye can see. About 100 miles south of Chicago on Interstate 55, the old Route 66, there appears a moun-tain range. It startles you. You cant imagine, what is this all about Well, it is because within a quarter mile of the interstate is a landfill and the landfill is huge, and I look at it every time I go by and it is growing. Maybe someday we will have a ski resort there, I dont know. It is not likely, but possible. But it points to a real serious issue which I would like to address for a moment here because I cant think of two more important wit-nesses. Most of that bulk in that landfill is paper, and it strikes me as odd that in this conversation about looking to the future, which the reform of the Postal Service is all about, there is very little conversation about paper other than making certain that you do business in Maine, which is important to our Chairman. Laugh-ter. URBIN Senator D. A few years ago, I had a notion that perhaps we should encourage the use of more recycled fiber and perhaps even offer incentives in postal rates for those who would have a certain percentage of their product in recycled fiber and a concomi-tant penalty for those...
