Sir: The Board of Commissioners appointed under the act of Congress April 10, 1869, submit herewith their sixth annual report. The history of the Indian service during the past year has been marked by more than usual trials and difficulties in its conduct, and by more than usual success in the progress which has been made by the various tribes of Indians toward a higher civilization and the ultimate completion of the peaceful policy inaugurated. During the previous years, on the recommendation of the then chairman of this board, the experiment was made of removing the two larger agencies of the great Sioux Nation into the interior of their reservation, about one hundred miles distant from the nearest military post. The experiment was made in the belief that, by the removal of what was regarded by the Indians as a standing menace in the presence of a military force, their good faith could be relied on for...
